Ever think about Ophthalmology as a career path?

Participate in the American Academy of Ophthalmology (AAO) and the Association of University Professors of Ophthalmology (AUPO) National Minority Student Mentoring Program. This innovative program provides under-represented minority students interested in ophthalmology with valuable support for medical career planning and decision-making. The Program includes a dynamic team of Ophthalmologist Mentors dedicated to working with you to reach your career goals and will provide you with an opportunity to:

- Meet ophthalmologists who work with underserved patients in the United States and internationally
- Make connections with our YOs (young ophthalmologists)
- Learn what it means to be an ophthalmologist
- Discover why ophthalmologists are passionate about protecting sight and empowering their patients' lives
- Hear how ophthalmologists save vision, perform eye surgery and make a BIG difference in their patient's lives

We promise you a rich experience!
